TURN ON THE LIGHT!

How Another Attempt at "Shakedown" Came to Grief.

THIRTEEN AGAINST ITS OWN REWARD

It smells very strongly of an attempted "shakedown."

The Lesson yesterday, in somewhat ironic vein, told the arrest of one of the female performers at the recent State Fair.

The charge was that on Saturday night last—just one week ago tonight—she had indulged in an improper proceeding at a prominent saloon cafe.

As might be supposed, the poor girl didn't have "money to burn," so the warrant was leveled at the saloon proprietor, who has a very good crop of the "blue grass."

It charged him, in the language of the law, with disorderly conduct and such for permitting the female woman to dance on his premises—and then some.

Well, the case was called in Judge Wadsworth's Court at 2 p. m. yesterday—and of course there was a splendid audience.

Hon. James H. Salter, ex-Commonwealth's Attorney—who by the way was one of the witnesses—defended the saloonist and was engaged also to defend the girl.

The able City Attorney had enough papers on his desk to have sent a Regiment of Pilgrims to the Penitentiary for 1894 years, and after hobnobbing with the whole Police Force for 144 minutes, he brushed the cobwebs from his brain and the dust of age from his glasses and gravely announced that he was ready to play ball.

Mr. Salter took everybody's breath when he moved the Court to clear the decks—to put the "biases" out—in other words, that the large concourse of "falsely accused" should be excluded from the room—and that if they would to know what was done they could find out from THE LEADER.

The witnesses, both for prosecution and defense, embraced Clerks and Professionals, with a few lesser lights,—showing that the City Attorney had an eye to the quality of his crew, even though they couldn't bolster up his rottenship.

From the examination of the first witness for the prosecution, the Court saw plainly that there was literally "nothing in it," and when the second witness had told his story the Judge grew impatient at the Attorney's thrashing and re-thrashing of old straw.

However, Mr. Wood pounded away, and the questions he asked were of the usual ally order,—repeated and repeated and repeated, and then all repeated some more, by a man who has lost his case, is in a deep hole and hasn't enough to say so and throw up the sponge.

Finally his wife was exhausted and he had to go in, and the Court or two witnesses were examined for the defense.

Then the City Attorney moved to dismiss the warrant as charged, and asked for another charging the saloonist with keeping an open house.

The Court thereupon dismissed the saloonist as well as the girl, for one case determined the other without further hearing.

Mr. Wood stated that he wanted the girl detained here until Monday as a witness in the new case.

Just as Wadsworth said he didn't think it necessary and would agree to it.

Attorney Wood, rising with majestic mien, gave the Court to understand, say, that it was his province to say who and who not he would have for witnesses.

Then Judge Wadsworth put on his snipe-hunting suit and these are the gentle sound waves that floated upon the Courtroom atmosphere—

"And it is the province of the Court to say No!"—the No being punctuated with a sledge-hammer blow on the desk that dislodged a board and ripped the heads of 3 teppany wire nails.

And then the City Attorney sat down with his majestic mien in reverse order.

It was a funny case.

By way of testimony of every witness, from the officer who made the arrest to the last one who appeared on both sides, there wasn't a scintilla of proof that anything improper had taken place—and the witnesses were as reputable men as live in Mayville.

Why, on why was the arrest of Miss Gensler officer postponed from Saturday night until the Thursday afternoon following, after she had bought a ticket and had her baggage checked for Cincinnati?

She was on the streets every day, and the "heat" was known to the officer early in the day morning—that is, the "fact" that were brought out at yesterday's business trial.

Under Judge Wadsworth's decision Mr. Otero left last evening for her home at Cincinnati, triumphantly vindicated.

And the moonbeams will go on as long as the good Lord refuses to order the Pool Killer on duty in Mayville.

A STRANGE THEFT

The Steamer Alameda Arrives at San Francisco from Australia Friday Morning.

SHE HAD $750,000 IN GOLD ABOARD.

The Money Was Shipped in Thirty Steel Boxes, Each Containing $25,000 in British Gold.

One of the Boxes on Arrival Was Missing and the Theft is Shrouded in Mystery—Five Men Have Been Arrested on Suspicion.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—There was great excitement on board the steamer Alameda upon her arrival from Australia Friday when it was discovered that a box containing 5,000 sovereigns was missing. Seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars had been taken from the steamer from Sydney. The money was shipped in 30 steel boxes, each containing $25,000 in British gold. One of these boxes was abstracted from the steamer's treasure room during the voyage.

The theft is apparently shrouded in the deepest mystery. To thoroughly understand the peculiar deftness of the crime it is necessary to explain that large sums of money frequently exceeding a million in amount, come from Australia by every steamer. The consignments of gold represent the balance of trade in favor of the United States. So common a feature of the cargo of the Australian ships are these shipments of gold that each vessel belonging to the Oceanic Steamship Co. has a special steel tank constructed for the safe carriage of the treasure.

On the Alameda this vault, as it may be called, is formed of steel plates each six-sixteenths of an inch thick. It is located under the steerage dining room and is the only mode of entering it through a small trap door secured with an iron bar and a Yale lock. The lock was sealed with the stamp of the steamship company after the boxes of sovereigns had been counted and received for by the purser, and the key of the lock placed in the safe in the purser's room. The purser declares that the key to the lock has never been taken from him safe from the time the steamer sailed from Sydney until the arrival here. The seal over the lock was unbroken and yet the consignments was short 5,000 sovereigns.

The generally accepted theory is that a number were implicated in the theft, and that when the box of sovereigns was secured it was opened and the gold divided among the robbers. The police have arrested five men who came on the steamer on suspicion. The suspects gave their names as William Green and John H. Porter and the former was on the passenger list as William Reed. The official account the idea that Purser Smith is in any way implicated in the theft. He has grown gray in the service of the company and he is declared to be absolutely above suspicion in the matter.

The last theory of the police is that the missing box was never in the steel tank. As the boxes are heavy, each weighing about 90 pounds, they were brought on board they were checked by the purser and chief officer and carried to the strong room by two porters. It is now believed that a game of bluff was played at this stage and the box instead of being placed in its proper receptacle was opened and the money either taken on shore before the steamer sailed from Sydney or else divided among the conspirators who were among the passengers. Nothing is known about Reed, alias Porter.

THE NURSE ARRESTED.

Carrie Jones Alias Helena Anderson, Confesses to Assisting in the Abduction of Little Marion Clarke.

New York, June 3.—The World Saturday morning says:

Carrie Jones, the nurse who had charge of Little Marion Clarke, was arrested at Summit, N. J., Friday night. Before a notary public Ella Anderson made the following confession:

"I aided in the abduction of Marion Clarke, the infant child of the late John Clarke of this city, county and state of New York. In this abduction I was prompted by Mark Beauregard and his wife, Jennie.

"I was told by them that I would get half of any ransom paid for the return of the child. I was poor, tired of hard work and wanted money. I was told that there would be absolutely no danger.

"The Beauregards schooled me in the way to abduct the child. We had determined to take the first child that would command a ransom.

"The plan was suggested this spring by Mr. Beauregard. I hesitated, but they persuaded me to act."

Printing Ink Manufacturers Combine. CHICAGO, June 3.—The Record Saturday says that a combination of manufacturers of printing ink is being formed, the capital stock to be $350,000.

SPANISH-GERMAN CESSION

The Movement Does Not Require Any Special Cognizance on the Part of the United States Government.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—While this government has been exercising its jurisdiction over the Marianas, Caroline and Palau islands, the colonial policy of Emperor William has led the administration to expect that the German government would lose no opportunity to stretch out its hand to Germany in the Pacific. Administration officials do not regard the movement as requiring any special cognizance on the part of the United States, for, according to one member of the cabinet Friday night, this government has acquired all that it wants in that quarter. While Guam is in the midst of the other islands of the Ladrones that are ceded, that fact is giving no concern here, and this government is not disposed to raise any question upon even further extension of German sovereignty in that section of the globe should Germany follow up the present cession with other efforts. Most of the islands in the neighborhood in the past have been infested with pirates, the very name of the Ladrones indicating the former hotbed of piracy, and there are a few islands yet where the black flag is common.

State department officials have been aware for some time that the German government had been in treaty negotiations with Spain for the cession of the islands referred to in the queen's speech in the cortes. The fact that this has been accomplished, however, had not been communicated to the authorities, and the announcement from Madrid, therefore, was news to them. Secretary Hay said Friday night that the question of cession was not one concerning which the United States would be consulted.

ESTERHAZY CONFESSES.

He Declares That the Time Has Arrived When the Whole Truth Should Be Known—He Wrote the Borendean.

LONDON, June 3.—The Daily Chronicle says that Maj. Comte Ferdinand Esterhazy called at its office Friday evening with a confidential friend, and after declaring that the time had arrived when the whole truth should be told, although hitherto, by reason of constant orders and inducements, he had been almost silent, he made the following statement:

"The chiefs of the army have disgracefully abandoned me. My cup is full and I shall speak.

"Yes (raising his voice and glaring around), I was I who wrote the borendean. I wrote it upon orders received from Sandherr."

Esterhazy, the Chronicle says, then proceeded to explain that for months before 1896 moral proofs had been obtained of leakages which were only possible through officers belonging to the ministry of war and it was necessary to catch the traitors by a material evidence. Hence the borendean. When asked what the chiefs of the French general staff would say to this confession, Esterhazy, shrugging his shoulders, disdainfully replied:

"They will be as they know how to lie, but I have them tight. I have proofs that they know the whole thing and share the responsibility with me. I will produce the proof."

The Daily Chronicle got Esterhazy to sign the notes of the interview.

TICKET.

Judge Geo. K. Nash, of Columbus, Nominated for Governor by Republican Convention.

SUCCESSFUL ON THE SECOND BALLOT.

Ex-Mayor John A. Caldwell, of Cincinnati, Nominated for Lieutenant Governor on the First Ballot.

W. D. Gilchrist Renominated for Auditor; J. B. Cannon, Treasurer; J. M. Shasta, Attorney General; W. Z. Davis Was Nominated for Supreme Judge.

THE AUDITORIUM, COLUMBUS, O., June 3.—Owing to the closeness of leaders during the night and again Friday morning, it was late before the republican state convention resumed although it had adjourned Thursday evening till 10 a. m. The auditorium was unable to hold all having tickets. Many were unable to gain admittance. There were so many tickets given out that some leaders could not secure standing room. While the ball discussed from the galleries, there were loud demonstrations as the leaders came into the hall, and especially when some of the winners of contested seats took their places.

It was 10:15 when Chairman Reed was calling for order. Prayer was offered by Rev. H. Barbour.

THE PLATFORM.

The following platform was adopted: The republican party of Ohio reaffirms the principles declared by the St. Louis platform. We earnestly endorse the recent administration of William McKinley. It is distinguished by a reasonable degree of conservatism, by democratic principles and by labor-saving measures. We are proud to have in our history, agricultural products could not be so consumed because consumers could not earn money to buy, and every branch of trade felt the blighting influence of the democratic tariff reform bill; the treasury of the United States was depleted, and the gold reserve disappeared. The government borrowed money to pay current expenses, increasing the public debt in times of peace by hundreds of millions of dollars.

The democratic party proposed to the people as a remedy for all these democratic ills, a depressed and disheartened currency, which is intensified every evil.

During all this period the republican party stood fast for the principles and policies under which America is a free, uniform system of selecting delegates for state conventions, protecting minority and minority having the Ohio caucus system at Toledo in 1902.

The reports of the committees on rules and order of business and on permanent organization were adopted. Chairman Kerr returned thanks for the endorsement in making the temporary organization permanent and proceeded to call for the reports of credentials.

The report of this committee seating the Ohio delegates from Hamilton county, the Belmont delegates from Cuyahoga, the Nash delegates from Franklin, was adopted without opposition.

The counties were then called for the presentation of names for the nomination for governor and it required a long time for these speeches.
